Nex-Tech assumes Dobson Technologies' CALEA contracts

Lenora, Kan, 01.04.18 — Nex-Tech is pleased to announce it has reached an agreement to assume Dobson Technologies' CALEA contracts. The transition was finalized on December 31, 2017.

The Communications Assistance Law Enforcement Act (CALEA) of 1994 requires Communications Service Providers to be able to assist law enforcement agencies in executing lawfully authorized electronic surveillance. This could include historical information, such as calling records or identifying the subscriber associated with a telephone number or an IP address. These types of records are often requested through a subpoena process.

Nex-Tech is a Trusted Third Party CALEA provider and can provision, implement, and maintain resources for acquired carriers. A Trusted Third Party is recognized by the government as an entity that can act in behalf of the carrier to implement CALEA compliance while maintaining a certain level of indemnification.

"This transition is very consistent with our corporate strategy and Nex-Tech is well positioned to provide the highest level of support available," said Frank Franzese, Dobson's President of Information Technology, Transport and Telecom Solutions. "We would like to thank those customers using the CALEA Service for their trust during the last 10 years."

"Nex-Tech is excited about the opportunity to expand its business and serve Dobson Technologies' customers," stated Jimmy Todd, Nex-Tech's Chief Executive Officer. "Dobson is the ideal fit for Nex-Tech because we already have a great technical team that provides CALEA services for other telecommunications companies."

Headquartered in Lenora, Kansas, Nex-Tech provides a full line of technology services. Residential services include Internet, Digital TV, home security, and local and long distance phone service. In addition to Internet and phone service, Nex-Tech provides an array of enterprise I.T. solutions including NOC services, cloud services, Hosted PBX, network security, physical security and surveillance, and managed services. Nex-Tech prides itself on bringing affordable, state-of-the-art technologies to its customers. For more information, please visit www.nex-tech.com.
