Press Release

All West Communications brings more Gigabit services to Summit and Wasatch Counties

Kamas, UT, May 12, 2015:

All West Communications, the leading provider of Fiber-to-the-Home services in Summit County, UT and Wasatch County, UT is excited to announce that they are the first to deploy 1 Gig services to residential customers within their Fiber footprint. All West Communications has been providing Fiber-To-The-Home services for 15 years and has been providing Gigabit service to businesses for 10 years.

In addition to Gigabit services, All West Communications has also launched new symmetrical Internet plans starting at just $46.95 per month.

Gigabit services (1000 Mbps) are immediately available to customers in several neighborhoods, including: Empire, Promontory, and the new Park City Heights Development in the Park City area, various areas in Wasatch County and in other areas throughout the Kamas and Coalville Valleys.

“Our rich history of over 100 years in providing telecommunications services to this area shows our complete commitment to our customers and the communities that we serve,” said Bridget Watkins, Vice President of Sales and Marketing for All West Communications. “We are fully vested in taking Fiber-To-The-Home services to all our customers to provide them with a future-proof service that allows them to experience Ultra-Fast Internet connections without having to live in a metropolitan area.”

In addition to Gigabit Internet services, All West Communications continues to offer various telephone, TV and Hosted PBX services to our residential and business customers with the opportunity to take advantage of money saving bundles and/or term discounts.

“We see a growing demand for not only faster internet speeds from our customers, but also specifically for faster upload speeds,” said Matthew Weller, President of All West Communications. “The ability for us to provide symmetrical connections at affordable prices for our customers fills this need and allows our customers to take advantage of the most advanced telecommunications services available.”

All West continues to expand Fiber-To-The-Home each year and after the build this year over 80% of their Fiber customers will have access to Gigabit services.

All West works closely with schools, libraries, city/county/state governments, medical facilities and other anchor institutions to ensure they have connectivity not only within their organization but across the world. They have chosen Calix as their vendor to provide Gigabit services.

“Calix is the leader in gigabit network deployments supporting 80 announced gigabit networks around the world,” said John Colvin, senior vice president of North American sales at Calix. “With this vast experience, we have seen how gigabit services can transform a community. By offering gigabit services, All West Communications is enabling its subscribers to be competitive on a global scale and helping the area attract new residents and businesses by offering some of the fastest Internet speeds available in the country.”
